

Donor Privacy and Confidentiality Policy

THRIVE New England (TNE) does not publish, sell, trade, rent or share names, mail or e-mail addresses, or telephone numbers of our donors. All access to donor financial information is strictly limited to professional staff who require this information in order to process this data. No data is ever given to any person, organization or group who does not legitimately need to access this data.

THRIVE New England is an affiliate ministry of Vision New England (VNE).

TNE and VNE only use highly secure online payment processing services. TNE and VNE does not store, nor does it have access to, your credit card information, bank account numbers, or other account data sent to these processing services.

TNE and VNE use contact information of donors for the following purposes only:

1. Sending receipts and thank you letters to donors.
2. Notification to individuals in whose honor/memory donations have been made when requested by donor.
3. Internal analysis and record keeping.
4. Reporting to relevant federal and state agencies when required by law. (Note: These reports are not available to the public.)
5. Informing donors about TNE's financial needs, upcoming events and special announcements.

At any time, a donor may request not to receive mailings.

THRIVE New England makes every effort to ensure the accuracy of our donor database.

Please contact TNE at the address and phone listed below if you would like us to update, correct or remove your contact information. For more information about our policies or to make comments please contact info@thrivenewengland.org or mail to

Online Privacy Policy

Last updated: 01/30/2020

Thrive New England (“us”, “we”, or “our”) operates <https://www.thrivenewengland.org> (the “Site”). This page informs you of our policies regarding the collection, use and disclosure of Personal Information we receive from users of the Site.

We use your Personal Information only for providing and improving the Site. By using the Site, you agree to the collection and use of information in accordance with this policy.

Information Collection And Use

While using our Site, we may ask you to provide us with certain personally identifiable information that can be used to contact or identify you. Personally identifiable information may include, but is not limited to your name (“Personal Information”).

Log Data

Like many site operators, we collect information that your browser sends whenever you visit our Site (“Log Data”).

This Log Data may include information such as your computer's Internet Protocol ("IP") address, browser type, browser version, the pages of our Site that you visit, the time and date of your visit, the time spent on those pages and other statistics.

We also use various analytics tools to collect and process data, including Google Analytics, which has its own privacy policy and opt-out features described at www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners/.

We use collected information to operate and improve the site and our services, to develop new programs, to understand and analyze aggregate metrics such as the number of visitors or page views, to provide information and services to you or otherwise communicate with you, to solicit charitable donations, and in any other manner described to you when the information is collected, or to which you give your consent.

You may adjust your mailing preferences or unsubscribe from our email list by clicking the appropriate links in email you receive from us. You may also decline to share information with us, or may use features provided by your device or web browser to delete cookies or block other data collection mechanisms.

Communications

We may use your Personal Information to contact you with newsletters or promotional materials. You may opt out of these communications by contacting us at info@thrivenewengland.org and requesting your data be deleted. Our site may contain links to other websites that are not operated or controlled by us such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Google Forms, or Snapchat. Please review the privacy policies of such other websites for information about what information they collect and how they use it.

Cookies

Cookies are files with small amount of data, which may include an anonymous unique identifier. Cookies are sent to your browser from a web site and stored on your computer's hard drive.

Like many sites, we may use "cookies" to collect information. You can instruct your browser to refuse all cookies or to indicate when a cookie is being sent.

Security

The security of your Personal Information is important to us, but remember that no method of transmission over the Internet, or method of electronic storage, is 100% secure. While we strive to use commercially acceptable means to protect your Personal Information, we cannot guarantee its absolute security.

Changes To This Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy is effective as of 01/30/2020 and will remain in effect except with respect to any changes in its provisions in the future, which will be in effect immediately after being posted on this page.

We may modify this privacy policy from time to time, and will make any such revised policy available on our site. If the modifications materially alter your rights or obligations, we will make reasonable efforts to notify you of the change, such as by email or a pop-up notification the next time you visit the site or use Sign-in Services. Your continued use of the site or services after such a change indicates that you have read, understand, and agree to the revised privacy policy.

Please contact us at info@thrivenewengland.org if you have any questions about this privacy policy or the ways in which we collect, use, and disclose information.
